Some, declaiers rush to play the first couple of cards. Sometimes this does not hurt. Sometimes a table might have saved a hundred dollars later. South was one of the early salesmen.

U.P. ASCS Told: Emphasize Soil, Water Conservation

ESCANABA — A special U.P. Peninsula meeting for farm electors, committees, and county agricultural stabilization and conservation (ASCS) personnel was held here this week.

At the meeting, the county ASCS committee members were featured. Present were: Alger County, Richard J. Carlson, County ASCS chairman; and Arnold V. Hill, county ASCS committee member.

These present were Marquette County, Peter Van Damme, County ASCS committee member; and Arvo E. Johanson, county ASCS committee member. Also present were county officers: Jack Lander, and Bertha E. Johnson, office clerk.

Nicholas Smith, Lansing, new state chairman of ASCS, told the group that there are several measures to be undertaken for the benefit of the county and the area:

1. A program through which the U.P. counties will be able to assist in the establishment of a soil and water conservation project.
2. A program for the promotion of the use of safe and sanitary methods of farming.

These programs are to be continued at the present levels.

He said the State Committee is planning increased interest in State allocation to go to the counties of the Upper Peninsula.

Discussion On Vietnam Held By Clergy Council

Led by a panel of religious leaders, the program discussed the role of clergy in the Vietnam conflict.

The program was held at the First Presbyterian Church and was attended by clergy and laymen from the area.

The panel consisted of a Kiwanis Club member, a minister, a rabbi, and a priest. The program was moderated by a local teacher.

The panelists discussed the role of clergy in the Vietnam conflict and the impact of the war on the community. They also discussed the importance of education and communication in the current political climate.

The session ended with a question-and-answer period, where audience members had the opportunity to ask questions and express their thoughts on the topic.
