CLASS SONG OF 1922

On the sea of life we're launching
For our journey o'er the wave,
Gathered strength at length we summon,
Passing here with hearts ever brave;
Anxious now we raise the anchor,
To sail with the outward tide,
For we're ready for our journey,
Our memories of thee abide.

Normal School we now are leaving,
To you we bid adieu;
Even though we now are going,
Ever we'll remember you.
To our many friends and classmates
We will ever loyal be,
And always strive to honor
N. S. N. on time's wide sea.

Here's a toast to the Class of '22:
May she always a victor be;
The years may come and go rolling by;
We will drink a health to thee,
Then sing and be glad the hours are few;
Let's cheer the Olive and the Gold;
Goodbye, N. S. N.! Till we meet again:
Memories of '22.

Ruth S. Rosander.

Honor Students

There are three requirements in order to become an Honor Student in the Training Department. The scholarship must be exceptionally good, the practice teaching unusually strong, and student must manifest a general spirit of helpfulness in all school activities.

The following have been Honor Students during the Spring term:

- |                 |                |
|-----------------|----------------|
| Violet Anderson | Martha Evenson |
| Anna Grefe      | Violet Nelson  |
| Helen Thompson  |                |

FOOTBALL, 1921

When Coach Gant sounded the call for candidates for the football squad about fifty men responded, seven of them being veterans of the 1920 squad. It could be easily seen from the first that the school was to be represented by a very formidable aggregation, several of the candidates being former high school and college stars.

When the curtain rose on the season of '21 it revealed Captain Dolf leading his team against the fast Negaunee Legion team. After the first three minutes of play the Normal scored on a forward pass, but held their lead for only a few minutes, when Negaunee scored by the same tactics. The score remained thus for most of the game, when the Normal scored by another forward pass, winning 27-13.

The next game was with M. C. M. at Houghton, and when the smoke cleared the Normal was found on the small end of a 12-7 score. The fans at this game proclaimed it the best game ever played on their grounds, and the Normal team the cleanest, flashiest one that ever played before them.

The following week the school played M. C. M. again, at Marquette. The fellows had made up their minds to avenge the defeat of the week before, and they did, winning 7-6. The forward pass machinery of the Normal was brought into play and the Engineers were bewildered.

FOOTBALL SQUAD, 1921

The next game was with the Gwinn Legion, and it was then that the Normal fellows had a very enjoyable time, walking away with the game to the tune of 29-0. When the season opens next fall many old faces will be seen on the team, as only seven men are being lost by graduation, they being Dolf, Deegan, Stolpe, Rydholm, G. Johnson, McIntosh and Wellman.

BASKETBALL

The season of 1922 opened with an unusual number of candidates on hand. After the first squad cut the men who survived were: Dolf, Rydholm and Paul MacIntosh, of the 1921 squad; Douglas MacIntosh, of the 1920 squad; Jenks, Coyne and Cleminson, of the Normal High; Bystrom and Limpert, of the Marquette High; O'Neill, a Duluth Central man; Collins, of Negaunee High; Clark, of Chisholm; Murray, of Stambaugh; Oliver, of the Baraga High, Marquette, and Heidaman, of Ironwood. The first game of the season with the Ford Miners proved that the Normal had gone out of its class. The gang put up a good fight, but lost 35 to 16. Many hard breaks were suffered by the team, for it had to play game after game with half the team on the sick list, and losing by a margin of one or two baskets. Some of these games were:

- M. C. M., 19; N. S. N., 17.
- Iron River, 17; N. S. N., 16.
- Alger County Club, 24; N. S. N., 20.

From a win and lose standpoint the season was not a success, but taking into consideration the teams they played, much credit must be given the team. This year the team will lose Dolf, MacIntosh, Rydholm and O'Neill, but there will be a wealth of material for Coach Hedgcock to work with. We wish the squad of 1923 every success.

STUDENT GIRLS' LEAGUE

In most schools that we know of there are sororities with mystic Greek letter names, initiation fees and jeweled pins. But the S. G. L. has none of these, for which we are truly thankful. To begin with, the Student Girls' League is composed of girls, run by girls, and for the benefit of girls. At times during the busy parts of the year it seems to lie dormant, and people wonder if it has died entirely. But when the basket-tossing artists come from far and near to vie with each other for the possession of the silver cup and the tournament ball, the S. G. L. comes to the front and supplies the crowded gym with Sundaettes, Sheiks, and Programs. And when, at the beginning of the Summer Session, each train pours forth a multitude of young persons who have never before set foot in our fair city, it is the S. G. L. train committee that guides them safely through the highways and byways to the protecting arms of their respective landladies.

Recently certain of the members noted the swollen condition of the treasury and were thereby inspired to throw a party. Permission was obtained from the Powers That Be and the slogan became "On with the dance." The Cloverland Five did its worst, and the exponents of the Terpsichorean art gaily wolf-galoped amid a barrage of kisses (the sanitary kind), a young snowstorm of confetti and several miles of serpentine, while the sparkers sparkled all 'round and the punch bowl was never empty.

"Some party," remarked a manly escort who was still slightly stunned by having his program made out for him ahead of time. We agree with him. It was —some party.

COMMERCIAL CLUB

COMMERCIAL CLUB

The Commercial Club was organized December 14, 1921, for the purpose of studying and discussing the business methods and topics of the present day. A few of the students have been given the opportunity of speaking, but thus far the majority of the addresses have been given by outside speakers; among them Mr. E. S. Bice, who spoke on "Salesmanship and the Importance of a Commercial Education"; Mr. A. E. Archambeau on "Business Efficiency", Mr. Orrie Brown, of Gwinn, on "Banking and the Service Which It Renders the Community", Mr. J. W. Adriance on "Salesmanship", and Mr. Bernard Goodman, who entertained us with his wit and humor.

The officers of the organization are as follows:

- Grace Dunn .....President
- Ruth Featherly .....Vice President
- George Johnson .....Secretary

THE DRUIDS

The last issue of the News said it was on the watch for the doings of "the wise ones", the "Druids". Some one has said "A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest of men." That must be true. The wise Druids, including even the High Priestess, went picnicking through rain, in open gas launches, over a lake all swells, to the camp at the foot of Sugar Loaf. Their altar on this occasion was a stove, before which they went through some of their mystic rites. Who (but the cooks) know the mysteries of sacrifices (meat loaf); of oblations (creamed potatoes); of incense (hot coffee)? Who have felt the joy of tasting that food of gods (devil's food cake)? Who have reacted to the fervor of sunset sacrifices, whose hot vapors trailed off through dripping woods (hot steak)? Or who have kept vigil at the top of the mystic mountain while strange-shaped fog wreaths lifted or sank on distant woodland? Or carried their faith through thick darkness to the neighboring tribes (Marquette) and come home with joy in their hearts, wet bindings on their feet and a wholesome respect for the sacred forest?—The Druids!

MATHEMATICS CLUB

For the last two years I bin writing up the stuff for are math club. This year the lady with the silver locket on the long black ribbin says to make it very general. I suppose she means the gilt shoulder straps and vivid brass buttons part, but I ain't much on flourishes, so I'll cut it short. Are president was Mister Lane who has also bin here two years. I thought Presidents was supposed to conduct meetings by the shortest root—but he ast so many questions he must a thought the longest way round was the shortest way home. Miss Van Den Boom was the vice president. You'd think from her name she made lots of noise, but she's one of them voices that "turneth away wrath." Mister Hustad was are secretary. He used to let other members read the minutes. That was short and sweet and everyone was always bidding for the job. Well, sir, Mr. Spooner says are club has learned a lot. I know I have. I can spell lots better than then I could, and sometimes I understood what the speakers was talking about. If they had as good a time as I did they'll come again. Are best advertizement is are satisfied members.

OSIRIS

The toasts, the hopes and the wishes of the former members of Osiris for its success and long life have not been made in vain. Not only has the membership been large, but the programs given this year have been varied and of a high degree of excellence. They have been both amusing and serious, but always interesting. One program was a mock negro wedding, another a debate by pupils from the Negaunee High School. During the year a play, "The Corner Drug Store," was given jointly by Osiris and Ygdrasil. This play was a howling success, as was shown by the way the audience received it, and by the gate receipts. Since Osiris was so large it was decided to divide it into two societies, the Junior and Senior Osiris. Each society has tried to get ahead of the other, and a friendly rivalry has been kept up the rest of the year. On May 11, an interesting program was given in assembly, which was a credit in every way, both to those who took part and to the society as a whole.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

What's this? Yes, we have a Glee Club! All members of this organization know it and can tell you about it. At the first meeting an election of officers took place. Clara Hoiem was elected president, Pauline Ross, vice president, and Dorothea Knight, secretary. Splendid programs have been given each Wednesday in the Music Room. Miss Linten has given some very interesting talks on musical subjects and musical instruments. During the Winter Term we worked diligently on the musical comedy, "College Days," which was to have been presented at the opening of the Spring Term, but due to illness and other obstacles had to be given up. However, we feel that our musical knowledge has been expanded, and that all members have learned to appreciate the qualities of good music.

Under the auspices of the club a splendid stringed trio has been organized under the leadership of Harry Bottrell, who is an especially gifted violinist, and we must not forget our male quartette, who have entertained us with their pleasing selections. The quartette is composed of Mr. Napoleon Martin, first tenor; Mr. Rutger Erickson, second tenor; Mr. Raymond Erickson, first bass; Mr. Nordling, second bass. Mr. Nordling is especially gifted with a fine bass voice and plays the cello with ability.

The fruit of our toils was heard to advantage in our cantata, "The Lady of Shallott," which was presented on the evening of June 8 in the Normal Auditorium. Some of the best talent in the city participated in the program, among them being Mrs. Pohlman, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Walker, Miss Snell, Mrs. Hatch, vocalists; and Mrs. Weston and Mrs. Kepler, pianists.

YGDASIL

Father Time has passed his scythe over another year and the harvest has been unusually rich for Ygdrasil. The students willingly did all they could to contribute to the success of the society. A mock wedding introduced the society's programs this year and the mid-winter play, "The Corner Drug Store," given in connection with Osiris, proved that the training the society provided had not been in vain. The excellent piano, vocal and violin solos, the pianologues, readings and playlets have made the evenings spent at Ygdrasil a pleasure which none of us will ever forget. In reviewing the year's work we can not fail to mention the fine work in debating which has been done this year. Plans for more extensive work in this field have been made for next year.

Our three Ygdrasil presidents, Adele Niemi, Eleanor Jernstad, and Ethel Olson, deserve much credit for the society's pronounced success.

Behind it all, however, we find that the willing help, the wise counsel, and careful guidance of Mr. Copper, Ygdrasil faculty advisor, has been perhaps the fundamental reason for Ygdrasil's success. Our only regret is that next year we can not have our loyal Senior members back again. We shall miss them.

SISTER COLLEGE CLUB

The Sister College Club is the only society connected with the Northern State Normal that has a religious motive. Although meetings have been held monthly in the Methodist Church, the club members represent many Protestant denominations. Materially the members are taking a share in the maintenance of their Sister College, the Isabella Thoburn College, at Lucknow, India. Briefly, the history of the college is as follows: In 1870 Isabella Thoburn, a missionary, gathered at Lucknow six children for her first experiment in organizing a Christian school in India. Since the experiment was a success, one class after another was added to the school, until the teachers found it necessary to purchase an estate. This estate has been the home of the college ever since. Later the government of India decided to organize a great university at Lucknow which should be the "Oxford of India", and the Isabella Thoburn College was given the privilege of being the woman's department of that university. Thus the women of this great province of fifty million people in Northern India will receive, and are receiving, an opportunity to receive college degrees under Christian supervision. Isabella Thoburn College realizes that better women are the strongest factor in making better India.

The members of the S. C. C. have worked for much. No little credit is given to the Club Advisor, Mrs. W. L. Casler, for the underlying success of the past year's work.

THE HIKERS' CLUB

Some time, during one of your daily inspections of the bulletin board, you see a sign reading somewhat like this—"Girls, sign here for the hike Wednesday afternoon. Bring your cup and a quarter." And if you are a girl, and you add your cognomen to the list, you become, then and there, a member of the Hikers' Club. So on Wednesday afternoon you meet the rest of the gang and merrily sally forth, feeling very comfortable in your old duds. When the destination is reached, somebody builds a roaring fire, and while the coffee bubbles in the big coffee pot, you impale a helpless weenie on a stick and hold it in the flames until it has caught fire four times and has accumulated a sufficient amount of ashes. Then you sandwich it between the halves of a roll, grab a cup of the celestial fluid from the coffee-pot and proceed to surround them. After repeating this process several times, you're quite contented to sit still, watching the fire, while Miss Gray tunes up the uke and hums this cheerful little ditty:

"O I dreamt last nite
About a rubber-tired hack.
It took me to the graveyard,
And forgot to bring me back."

Suddenly you discover that it's time to pack up and depart, so there is much hustling. As you wander home through the quiet darkness, somebody begins to sing, "We have labored at the Normal," and you decide that the old school isn't so bad, even if you have a great many labors to perform before the following day.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club has been actively engaged since 1913 in working for advancement along educational lines and increasing the feeling of union and of companionship among its members.

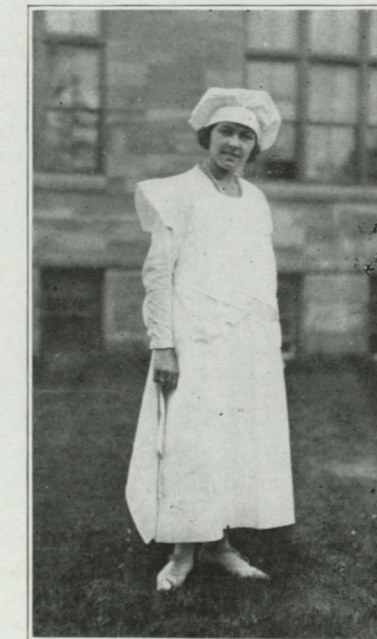

Every year the work has been successfully carried out, but along different lines. During the war the club devoted itself entirely to war work. Miss McCallum was appointed chairman of the garment work in Marquette. All work of this kind was done in the Home Economics Department of the N. S. N. under her supervision.

In the fall term of 1920 the club was reorganized. The form of government adopted was that of a committee of five, with Miss McCallum, head of the department, as adviser. A rummage sale, which proved very profitable, was held to obtain funds for activities. One of the club's social events for the year was a theater party given for its members. Some time later a dancing party was held in the gymnasium.

To help finance the club during the year 1922 another rummage sale as well as several candy sales were planned and carried to a successful issue. As a business venture the club has for the last two years been selling paper table cloths and napkins.

On the thirteenth of May another dancing party was held in the gymnasium. The guests, by their enthusiasm and expressions, appreciated all of the care taken in planning this party.

While the Seniors express regret at leaving the club, the Juniors are looking forward with pleasure to the work of another year.

OUR VALEDICTORIAN

CLASS PROPHECY

(Walks into living room, picks up paper from table, and starts to read, remarking as she goes along):

"Since I've been here in Chicago doing social work I never seem to have time to get a good look at a paper, but I'm just going to now. Here's the Sunday Tribune—(solemnly thinking)—1932! How time flies! Wonder if there's anything about my old friends here—

"Labor Troubles in Michigan"—there was a strike on when I was at the Normal—'Fritz Rydholm, Strike-Leader, Is at It Again—I always knew Fritz was a whiz when it came to work!

"Conference in Washington"—what's this? 'Most Unusual of Its Kind.' 'The following young maids have besieged Washington in quest of government aid to furnish a man and a home for each—Marvel Oliver, Hilavie Erickson, Ellen Holbrook, Edythe Kotila and Jeanette Guilbault.' That's funny! They were practically engaged at Normal—fate sure is queer!

"In 'Dental Clinic for Children, Doctor Haskins Advises', 'In conference with Doctors Eldred Collick and Wm. Duke, Doctor Haskins advises the use of Sapolio for cleansing teeth."

"Hot Campaign Being Waged Against the Frivolities and High Life of the Modern Girl.' 'Instigators Eva Trotochaud and Inez Tousignant Openly Demand Reformation.' Time sure changes all.

"Marries Man After Ten Years' Estrangement!—who's this? (Still busily reading and, becoming more engrossed as she progresses) "Gladys Thornley"—why I thought that was going to take place a few days after commencement!

"Stage Stars Tell How They Began Their Career.' 'Mae Byrne, Mugs Hadrich, and Grace Northy Give Advice to Would-Be Stars.'

"Gracious what's this?—

"300 Dry Law Cases Awaiting U. S. Court Trial.' 'Judges Agnar Johnson and Alfred Wellman Will Take Charge.' No doubt the charge will be strong!

"Pageant of Old Michigan.' 'Some of Michigan's most fascinating and graceful girls in the persons of Adele Niemi, Eleanor Jernstad, Gladys Muck, Clarys Richards, and Edna Brown are taking part in the pageant given this week in Detroit. Those taking the part of Sea Nymphs are Helen Graefe, Zoe Trudeau, and Mary Millard, all leaders in society.'

"Here's the Sport Section, let's have a 'close up.'

"Smash World's Disc-Throwing Mark.' 'Using her D. S. doughnuts as discs Mary Pierce outranked all former contestants. Lotus Muehrcke a close second.' Mary surely could cook!

"The Days of Real Sport,' cartooned by Clarence Stolpe—So Clarence has beaten Briggs to it—anyhow since the rush Clarence surely knows what the days of real sport are.

"And the women have formed a Baseball League. 'Manager Lorraine Hooper. Other prominent members are Helena Martinkewiz, Alice Hardimon and Marie Johnson.' They are surely great on home runs according to this.

"International Sports—Edited by Agnes Ritchie. Miss Ritchie has taken the affirmative, with Miss Guilbault the negative, in the most momentous problem, "Does chewing gum keep it's flavor on the bed-post over night?"

"British Golf Championship'—Awarded to Mildred Biscombe, of Negaunee, who far outclasses all.' Who and what next?

"Oh, yes, the Fashions.

"Simplicity Keynote of Children's Fashions, written by Mme. Anne Lepisto.' 'Embarrassing Moments, as experienced by Blanche Griffin!'

"Why (looking intently at a picture) this looks like Edithe Thomas; she's been voted the most beautiful woman in the world.

"Here 'Love Letters,' who gets the prize today—Jim Caven writes "To My Marie"—he surely knows how to do it.

"Lonely Hearts'—here's where I get some information—'Dear M—I'm coming back some day—Grant Baird.' To be sure, Grant always came back.

"Interior Decorating'—'Suggestions from Jean Burge, Elsie Bjorling, Anna Johnson and Selda Waara.'

"Men's Fashions—by George Kimber. Mr. Kimber states that brown and blue combinations will be the style this spring.'

"Real Love Stories'—'Ah, How We Loved,' by Gladys Sandstrom and Mathilda Johnson.

"A Friend in Need"—something new—I have an old Ford car and a chauffeur. If anyone has any use for either apply to me. Signed, Frene.' That must be Katherine Stephenson all right.'

"Here's the Tribune Cook Book. 'Strawberry Short Cake Special! Edited by Anna Johnson and Helen Juhlin.' They must have taken lessons from Mrs. Doetsch.

"Popular Science Column.' 'Miss Marion Krellwitz has the distinction of inventing an automatic hair bobbing machine'—Too bad Mary Pierce didn't know about this. 'Sociology—Articles by Ethel Hagen and Eva LaCombe, namely, "Is It Best to Ride or Walk on Rush Day?" "Treatises on Nature Study," as written by Mary Harrington.' Mary's pet hobby!

"Now for a glance at the social notes.

"Miss Margaret Henderson has been elected chairman of the Brake-men's Union because of exclusive ability to alight from speeding cars.'

(Looking at photo, and recognizing someone) "If it isn't Marie Bjorkman. 'Miss Bjorkman just returned to her home after an extended trip to Sweden, accompanied by Misses Lempi Erickson, Mayme Maki, Mabel Johnson and Teckla Mattson.' Back from the 'Ould sod.' Isn't it great?

"Weddings'—Wonder who did the stunt now? 'A beautiful wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daly of Iron River took place when their daughter Ruth was wedded. The bride was attended by some of her spinsterly friends, among whom were Mary Ellen Shea, Vera Sleeman, Emily Smedberg and Mildred Kemp.' Who would have thought it of Ruth?

"Entertains Club—Much praise was given Miss Gladys Trethewey for her artistic Grecian ballet at the Bohemian Arts Club last week. She was assisted by the following artists: Louise Godin, Eunice Tregembo, and Mildred Strandell.'

"Gives Masque Ball for Wounded Veterans—Miss Emy Carlson and Miss Henrietta Miners give most elaborate party of the year. Among the most striking costumes were those of Miss Violet Jacobson, as a fire-fly, and Miss Anna Graefe, as a fairy. Miss Violet Nelson and Miss Viola Anderson also wore striking costumes.'

"Miss Elsie Trevarthen gives Tea. In honor of Miss Dorothea Knight, of the Ziegfeld Follies, Miss Trevarthen gave a tea on the White House lawn. Miss Knight lately returned from abroad, where she studied the latest fads in hair dress. Among the guests were Al Dolf, all-American athlete; Andy Steele, engineer of Peanut Roasters; Mugs McPhee, queen of the Tennis Bats; and Ann Delbridge, pound-mistress of Chocolate.' Isn't that news tho'? Andy always did have a hard line!

"Want Ads:

"Wanted—A few lost words for the Class Song. Ruth Rosander.'

"Wanted—My marcel wave, which I lost in the huckleberry swamp at Clarksburg. Harold Schumar.' Too bad, it sure was 'some wave.'

"Wanted—To be a model. Have curly hair. Paul McIntosh.'

"Found—A select school for spinsterly maidens at Wakefield. Miss Pauline Ross, directress, assisted by the following: Marie Conway, expert on taste for earrings; Ida Beyers, professor of drawing husbands, and Irene Mattson, expert shoe-shine.' Even you, Polly, what's happened to Charles?

"Wanted—To sell a dog with a wart on his nose. Cadillac Square. This is where I must go and get my pet for the rest of my days."

Marcella Hild.

FACULTY NOTES

Students, Members of the Faculty, and Visitors:

It gives me the greatest of pleasure to come before you this morning to read to you of my initial experience with the radio mirror. Dr. Up and At 'Em kindly invited me to his laboratory to witness his final experiment. Dr. Up and At 'Em had achieved a means of recording upon a mirror the minute oscillations or vibrations which emanate from decided events or individuals. This mirror worked on the same principle as a motion picture talking machine. As I sat facing the mirror, the doctor motioned for silence, the lights went out, and I began to hear strange noises. There appeared before me a very unusual scene. Lo and behold, I could see a large group of people around the old tennis court behind our dear N. S. N. With a few adjustments the doctor made the reflections and sounds more distinct. I immediately recognized the scene as being one of the annual faculty tournaments. The entire faculty was there in gay array, the feature of the occasion being a tennis match between Miss Linton and Prof. Lewis, V. S., and Mrs. Rushmore and Prof. Bowman. It was certainly a beautiful sight to see these fairy-like stars darting about the court like butterflies. The game was being refereed by President Kaye, ably assisted by L. O. G. Gant and W. B. McClintock, whose knowledge of athletics has gained them world-wide recognition since the successful year of 1922, when they secured for the fellows trips to Appleton, St. Norbert's and Oshkosh. It is perhaps well for me to mention here some of the features of these never-to-be-forgotten trips. A case of oranges was provided for each game, along with the usual abundant supply of bandages and cosmetics. We were also supplied with a masseur, or trainer, to rub down the fellows. This masseur, Prof. Copper, was chosen because noted, while Ygdrasil critic, for rubbing it in. The game went on, the score being kept by Prof.

Spooner, who, when called upon to give it, absent-mindedly replied that there were 3 pts. to a tennis qt. and that the net profit on serving cold tennis balls was about 10%. The timekeeper, Prof. Lautner, stood off to the right with his watch in one hand and his economics text-book in the other, trying to determine how many steps the players would save if equipped with roller skates. After a few minutes more of playing, intermission was called. The noted musician, Miss Gray, pleased the spectators with a whistle solo, entitled, "I Wanna Be Somebody's Baby." The next number on the program was a short talk on Oral Penmanship and How We Used to Do It in La Michigan. Prof. Stockwell then volunteered to demonstrate how, with the yard stick and compass, he would take mental measurements during the following year. The intermission was nearing the end when Miss Clark insisted upon having a personal tete-a-tete with the players to tell them how they were getting along. Intermission ended with a short talk by Dr. Lowe on "Goose Eggs." The game was started again, but as I was not very deeply interested I began to observe the happenings about the contest. In one corner of the court I beheld our dear drawing teachers, Miss Spalding and Miss Ward, still at their work of painting and brushing up. Just opposite from them I perceived a young woman dressed in the latest screams from Paris, with the silken tresses of her bobbed hair waving in the sunlight. I recognized Miss McCallum. Behind her came two youngsters rapidly manipulating "kiddy-kars"—Miss King and Mr. Martin. All of a sudden the lights went on, the laboratory filled with smoke, and the scene was obliterated from the mirror. Dr. Up and At 'Em calmly assured me that all would be well in a few moments. I patiently waited and my patience was rewarded with the final scene, in which the prizes were awarded the tennis stars. For being the one most graceful and adept on the court, Prof. Lewis received the first prize, consisting of a keg of nails from Mr. Parker's hope chest. Second prize was given to the one wearing the most attractive tennis costume. This prize was Prof. Chase's masterpiece, "The History of the Athletic Field." It was awarded Miss Linton. Third and fourth places were given Mrs. Rushmore and Prof. Bowman for their dramatic playing. They were each given a season ticket to the Delft Theater. Being so pleased with the prizes, they expressed their appreciation with the song, "Till We Meet Again." A pie-eating contest then ensued between President Kaye and Prof. Stull, but was not a very great success, because President Kaye stopped to chase some small boys who were smoking cigarettes off the campus, and Prof. Stull got angry because someone shouted that he had the most crust. Dr. Up and At 'Em, seeing this tumult, stopped the machine and asked me if I cared for any more. I replied, "No, I thank you."

I thank you,

Clarence H. Stolpe.

GIFTATORY

How I hate house-cleaning time. Guess I'll get rid of a lot of this junk and give it to some of my poor neighbors. I believe I'll start right now. Let's see —

"Frenchy" Trotochaud—A pair of scissors, to keep on trying to cut out other girls.

Marie Conway—A dear little man, because the best of 'em fall in love.

Inez Tousignant—First prize, $5.00, for being the fastest trotter in the Senior Class.

"Fritz" Rydholm—A stick of dynamite, just for fun, to see if it will make him move any faster.

Agatha Harrington—A sombrero, to bring out the hidden beauty.

Ruth McLean—A cry baby, in case her own voice should ever fail her.

Paul MacIntosh—A little "Polly," so he can always have somebody there to call Elsie.

Grace Northey—A cake of Fairy soap. "Have you a little Fairy in your home"?

Alice Hardimon—A book entitled, "Hints to Housewives."

Vera Sleeman and Siami Josey—Circular combs—curls are such a bother.

Mary Pierce—A sand pail; for when she's down at Palm Beach who knows but Mary might cop a millionaire.

Mary Ellen Shea and Mildred Strandell—Two cakes of Woodbury's Facial Soap—"The charm of a skin you like to touch."

Leo Schunk—A pair of gloves, so that Leo may never soil his hands.

Gladys Thornley—A little red-head; you win the bet.

Jeanette Guilbault—An anchor, to keep her from rising too high.

Viola Anderson, Esther Johnson, Marie Johnson, Anna Johnson, Mabel Johnson, Matilda Johnson, George Johnson, Oscar Johnson, Agnes Olsen, Emy Carlson and Violet Nelson—Lut Fisk.

Clarence Stolpe—A pitch pipe, so that he can always find a key after midnight parties.

"Peg" Henderson—A hot-water bottle—"First Aid to the Injured."
Hilavie Ericson and Albert Dolf—Hearts—An organ on which to play "Till We Meet Again."

"Ted" Handy—A whistle, to keep on blowing.
Pauline Ross—A pen, to sign "With love to Charles, Polly."
Lotus Muehrcke, our Valedictorian, and Helen Thompson, our Salutatorian—Sand-paper medals for bravery in action.

Marcella Hild—A memorandum, to keep track of her dates.
Harold Shumar—A mirror and comb, so that his locks may always suit him—because the one over the kitchen sink will soon be gone.
Freeman Haskins—A box of matches—he won't be able to take them from the boarding house much longer.

Florence Pearce—A rope, to get a pull with Dr. Lowe and Prof. Chase.
Florence Olsen—A rubber cap, to keep her head from swelling.
"Katy" Arend—A "Dude," so that now she may end her conquests.

Grant Baird—Beau ideal, a pair of dancing pumps.
Grace Ojala, Doris Romph, Louise Godin, Zoe Trudeau, Jean Burge, Mildred Kemp and Helen Juhlin—Rulers, to rule unruly children.

Margaret McPhee—A lasso, to catch a fellow.
Marvel Oliver—A dollar, to hire a hall and tell the world she's to be married.

Mr. Steele—A globe—now you do own the world.
Henrietta Miners—Yeast, to make her rise.
Birdseed for Our Singers—Ruth Rosander, Clara Hoiem, Ann Delbridge, and Agnes Leahy.

Clarys Richards—An honorary membership in all literary societies in the U. S. A.
George Kimber—Book, "How I Gained Twenty-Five Pounds of Muscle in One Week."

Helen Graefe—A pencil, to aid her in note taking.
Alfred Wellman—A gun, because he's sure to pop up again.
Fern Malmgren, Gladys Sandstrom, Emily Smedberg, Martha Evensen, Lempi Ericson, Elsie Bjorling, Ethel Halberg and Marie Bjorkman—Some nice "Swenska Snoose."

Phyllis Nancarrow—A Bible, in case her old one has worn out.
Eva LaCombe—A lantern, the head-light of the class.
Edith Thomas—And here's a nice little Carl for Edith.

Helen Martinkewiz—A brake, to keep her from being so speedy.
Hattie Haryu—A crystal ball, to keep making brilliant recitations without even opening the book.

Lydia Terrill—Weenies for her next camping trip.
Dorothea Knight—Rubber band, because she is a good stretcher.
Blanch Griffin—Seeds—"As ye sow so shall ye reap."

Mayme Maki, Mary Millard, Irene Mattson, Lillian Wyatt, Eunice Trengembo and Selda Waara—Switches—Our poor little school mistresses for protection.

Mildred Biscombe—A bat—Because she makes such hits.
Violet Jacobson—A tender violet.

Iva Louise Baumgartner—Racket, because she is always making one.
Eldred Collick—A screw-driver. Try it, and watch the results.
Ellen Holbrook—A bottle of dye Henna is all the rage.

Ann Lepisto—A loaf of bread, sent with the compliments of the Queen City Bakery—"Lest We Forget."

Ruth Daly—A magic wand, to change herself according to her environment.

Wesley Bond—A lemon squeezer—To squeeze the lemons.
"Freene" Stephenson—A little "jack" to have at all times.

Eleanor Jernstad—An untearable hairnet for terrible locks—that's what it is to be a school teacher.

Ethel Hagen—A letter of introduction to the Governor of Michigan. Tell us what he has for dinner, eh Ethel?

Gladys Trethewey—Shortening.
Mary Harrington and Lorraine Hooper—Vitamin Tablets. Guaranteed to gain ten pounds in one week or your money back.

Edna Brown—A candle—sooner or later it's time to retire.
Fanny Labold and Marion Krellwitz—A bottle of ginger, to make life a little more snappy.

Ida Beyers—A chair, to look 'em straight in the eye.
Jack Rickman—Shoe blackening, to get a shine on.
Elsie Trevarthen—A stick of gum, so that Elsie can always stick to one.

Well, I guess I've gotten rid of almost everything. I don't think I'll give this pillow away, because it is nice and soft. No, I guess I'll give it to "Wink" Johnson—he needs it more than I do—so that he can always lie down on the job.

Margaret Hadrich.

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1922, of the Northern State Normal School, City of Marquette, County of Marquette, being of sound mind and memory, do make this our Last Will and Testament, in the manner following:

We direct that, as far as possible, the debts which we owe to President Kaye, our faculty advisor, Mr. Gant, and the other members of the faculty who have guided and pushed us, be paid.

We dispose of the following real property:

First: To the Class of 1923, a sardine can of good luck and advice, not to be opened except in cases of direct distress, preferably during the rush of 1923.

Second: Paul MacIntosh bequeathes his exalted presidential chair to Chester Ross, hoping Chester finds it just as hard and just as devoid of cushions as he found it.

Third: Hilavie Ericson and "Al" Dolf will their unseen devotion to George Chase and Marjorie Brown.

Fourth: "Ted" Handy leaves his surplus hot air to the Normal, to help defray heating expenses during the coming year.

Fifth: Marvel Oliver and Gladys Thornley give up with reluctance their over-exercised ability to make love in public to Marie Vandenoorn.

Sixth: Helena Martinkewiz wills her recent publication, "The Freedom and Grace of Youth," to Eda Hedburg.

Seventh: Mary Harrington and Grace Northey bestow their "Wallace Reducing Records" upon Helen Harrington. Mary doesn't need them any more, and Grace is reading "The Freedom and Grace of Youth."

Eighth: Marie Conway and Gladys Sandstrom will their expertness at cradle snatching to "Bob" Vandenoorn.

Ninth: To the highest bidder we leave—

1. "Frenchy" Trotochaud's ability to make love in true cave woman style.
2. Inez Tousignant's troubles—heart and otherwise.
3. "Fritz" Rydholm's millionaire front.
4. Marie Bjorkman's proof that before she reaches Stockholm the Swedes will have dominated the world.
5. "Mugs" Hadrich's dress with the fringe on it, also her thumb-worn copy of "I've Got the Wondering Where He's Gone, When He's Coming Back Blues."

Tenth: We direct that Lydia Terrill's giggles be locked securely in the school safe. Thank you.

Eleventh: We bequeath—

1. Ruth McLean's tears for the irrigation of Dr. Lowe's garden.
2. Grant Baird's old dancing pumps, made over into a few pairs of shoes for the Hikers' Club.
3. Stanley Moffatt's ministerial dignity to "Soup" La Violette.

Twelfth: The great vacancy created by the departure of Mary Pierce and Mr. Steele, we leave to any two Juniors important enough to fill their places.

Thirteenth: We direct that Juniors of ability be appointed to take the places of our sweet singers—Clara Hoiem, Anna Delbridge, Ruth Rosander, and Agnes Leahy.

Fourteenth: We leave—

1. "Con" Wellman's hatred of womankind to Mr. Montambo, to keep him well balanced.
2. Marcella Hild's and Katy Arend's success in love affairs to Olive MacArthur and Ethel Mellin.
3. Lotus Muehrcke's and Helen Thompson's laurels to the two Juniors most worthy of them.

Fifteenth: We direct that new ladies and gentlemen be appointed to places in Junior hearts left vacant by the departure of Agnes Olson, Vilan Primeau, "Tubby" Johnson and George Kimber.

Sixteenth: We leave "Wink" Johnson's and Clarence Stolpe's fondness for spooning to "Sleepy" Grierson.

Seventeenth: We offer to the school the services of our Carpenter—Jimmy.

Eighteenth: "Peg" Henderson wills her acrobatic agility to Grace Camille Dunn.

Nineteenth: Adele Niemi and Iva Baumgartner will their cordial "Hello" to Nan Metherell.

Twenty: Furthermore—

1. Catherine Stephenson, with reluctance, gives up her Jack to Kathryn Hutchings.
2. Mildred Strandell wills her unaffectedness, natural simplicity and innocence to Marion Longhurst.
3. Ida Beyers and Pauline Ross will their terpsichorean art to Dorothy "Allegretti" Dunstone.

4. Blanche Griffin wills her seat in the League Room gossiping circle to Grayce Shea.
5. Dorothea Knight wills her tales of Detroit in its wildest days to the "Editor of Adventure."
6. Eldred Gladstone Collick wills his intelligent questions to the faculty, to be used by them in exams.

Twenty-first: To the Dramatic Club of 1923 we leave all our old stage properties, if Mr. Hosking hasn't swept them up.

Twenty-second: To Miss McCallum's rummage sales we bequeath all lost articles.

We appoint Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Barry to be the executors of this our last Will.

In Witness Whereof, we have hereunto set our hands and seals this twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

SENIORS, 1922.

ELSIE TREVARTHEN,
Attorney-in-Fact.

THE JUNIOR RASPBERRY

I have been asked to write the Junior Roaster. I have done it with a rather regretful air, the same as you use when you chide a child for misbehavior. You know he doesn't know any better, you hope he'll grow up some day and step into your shoes, and you pray that eventually, by the Law of Nature, he will get something into his head, as Nature abhors a vacuum. But to go on.

Last fall, while walking to school, one of the fellows made the comment that he wondered why the training school was letting out so early. Here it was only 9:30, and the campus was literally covered with small, timid, bashful children. One little fellow had lost his nurse, another his rag doll, and the shrill cries of woe-begone children filled the air.

Upon closer scrutiny and investigation we found out that they were Juniors, who were looking for the registration room. They said they wanted to see President Kaye, as they were all homesick and wanted their ma and pa. But enough. It was unbelievable, the abysmal ignorance and childishness shown by those children. They enrolled, became fellow students as far as their feeble brains would permit them to associate with the far more intellectual Seniors, and were accepted into the school as a necessary evil.

We learned that it was with deep regret and reluctance that any faculty member ever spoke an unkind word to them. Everyone made allowances for them, even their parents, and this last they spent for lollypops and all-day suckers. As the term wore on, they seemed to catch the dignified or grown-up air of the Seniors to a certain well marked degree, the degree that separates imitation from possession. It was amusing to me to see them in the halls watching the Seniors as they sauntered down the hall. They would attempt the nonchalant method of locomotion only to blush and turn red as someone said, "Hey, Junior! How come?" But enough of that. It really tears my heart when I think of these puerile, childish, infantile Juniors as they looked the first month of school.

Later they improved a little, but could never expect to gain the heights of perfection gained by the Seniors, who, in their superior fashion, completely flabbergasted the simple dears and took away all their marbles.

But the apex of the cadenza was reached when they decided to stage a class rush, or, rather, when they heard that they were supposed to be rushed. The poor dears! The Junior boys only outnumbered the Senior boys three to one, but that was no majority, according to them. The little darlings would scamper from class to class and then to the library, their little teeth chattering and the goose flesh sticking out on their arms like mosquito bites. They feared the outcome of the combat, because they knew the Seniors were so superior in everything else that they didn't have a chance to win in this.

The day dawned bright and clear. The angel children were gathered on Fourth Street. They put up a real fight and showed their heroism by tackling a Senior aggregation of eight with only thirty Juniors. Can you imagine such an exhibition of absolute fearlessness. They then took the boys up to Middle Island Point, blindfolded, as if the Senior boys didn't know where they were going. To show their bravery against all odds (twelve Juniors against four Seniors who were tied), they stripped the Seniors of trousers and shoes and showed their admirable judgment by sending them out into the lake in a leaky boat. Two Juniors and four Seniors all tied.

Then, at the battle of L. S. & I., the boys sneaked up on W. M. and let him see their hose from the back. Later in the day sixty-six of the brave heroes were assembled in the Grill. Two Seniors walked in and seeing two other Seniors in there supposed a truce had been called. The truce was broken, and after about twenty-four Juniors had jumped on them, the two Seniors were tied and taken up to the Barber Shop at Forestville. Here again their bravery, their level-headedness, their sagacity was shown. Four Seniors were blindfolded, tied, hands behind their backs, and laid on the ground. Then this dauntless crew, with utmost daring, and utterly regardless of consequences, bravely brought out the hatchet and scalped their defenceless foes, taking the awful risk of being overwhelmed by these victims as they lay bound hand and foot.

Their smallness is shown by their absolute unwillingness to repay the Senior boys whom they attacked, although they were only six to one, for the clothes which they so feloniously and lawlessly stole. The girls have shown marked improvement. They are good-looking, though green, and we hope they will one day be a credit to the Normal. But my only outlook for these heroes, broad-minded, magnanimous, clear-thinking, brave, manly fellows (with a few exceptions, of course) is that they will be a credit and a pride to some well-known figure in state politics—the warden of a prison.

Andrew Steele.

THE LEAGUE ROOM

We worldly Seniors have been asked to turn from the pursuit of the more lofty subjects to the inspection of the feminine portion of the Junior class, and to remark upon their foibles and mannerisms. We quietly inspected the League Room, that Mecca of the ladies of '23, and after due observation and sundry thought arrived at the following conclusions:

First and foremostly, the young women of the Junior class can be divided into two classes,—those who live in the League Room and those who do not. Ninety-nine per cent belong to the first class and the one per cent are those absent.

For the benefit of the uninitiated we had better describe the League Room. It is large and square, with some delightful east windows which can not be opened. The most important article of furniture is a tall mirror. This is greatly admired by all. Indeed, it is a common sight to see

Ethel Mellin, Dorothy Latteral, Gertrude Moore, Myra Bergan and many others lined up impatiently waiting to take a look at it. It is a pity that anything exerting such an attraction and commanding such interest should be so scarce. We suggest that in the near future the four walls be lined with mirrors, so as to avoid congestion and waste of valuable time.

In the old days the League Room was used for study purposes, for mending unexpected rents in clothing, or for resting. But following the trend of the times it too has changed. It now serves the three-in-one purpose of barber shop (Dorothy Hutchings, proprietor); kitchenette (Nan Metheral, chief cook and bottle washer), and boudoir, free for all.

Another quaint bit of furniture is the old sewing machine. If it ever ran, no one knows. Now it makes an excellent seat for two. It has been permanently reserved by Dorothy Olmstead and Catherine Hutchings. Here they may easily discuss their love affairs, their dates of the past, and much hoped for dates of the future. They are thinking of having it upholstered for next year. To the right of this relic is a davenport (you have seen it at the proms), a rocker and a straight chair, grouped beneath the chandelier. This department constitutes the barber shop, the hair dressing establishment and the open forum. The straight chair faces the mirror, and it is here that the exquisite curls of Marie Vandeenboom daily spring into being. Here, daily, Marion Dear and her cronies exchange the topics of the day. These topics never vary, and the routine is as follows:

1. What are we going to wear tonight?
2. Whom are we going out with tonight?
3. What we did last night.

It is here, too, that many a blushing maiden, such as Merle Quayle, has been scalped and transformed into a fuzzy Fiji Islander.

Going toward the door, we pass the other chandelier, which is the nucleus of the kitchenette. In this spot Nan Metheral's chafing dish, expertly manipulated by Marion Longhurst, sends out tantalizing odors of fudge. A couch is placed conveniently by, so that the waiting epicures can keep an eye on the concoction, which has been known to break a tooth.

Near here is a cupboard, intended primarily for books, but is now used as a repository for ukeleles, rubbers, candy wrappers and other articles. It has also risen to the occasion of hiding agile Juniors, such as Eda Hedberg, Bob Vandenboom and Gail Roy, when President Kaye or some other faculty member entered, recruiting for assembly. If it were only larger! One is so apt to get stuck, don't you know, which would be a dreadful thing.

The League Room boasts one picture. It is a weird affair left by some dear departed impressionist. The Juniors have split into two factions over it. Evelyn Gormly claims that it represents a cabbage (she takes nature study), while Helen Lindquist, who was a D. S. specialist, claims it is a cauliflower in bloom. We Seniors have been much amused, for we know it is neither. It is a sublimated Brussels sprout.

The League needs no radio. At almost any hour of the day the distant voices of Mr. McClintock and Mr. Lewis can be heard outside the door faintly clamoring for silence—which they never get. Mr. Lewis has even tried to gas them out, but failed.

One praiseworthy thing about the League Room is its Bible. During the last winter term the girls of the Comp. and Rhet. Class would come in and diligently and reverently read this Bible. We noticed that Gladys Face was especially interested in the book of Mark. She's quite adept at coynig new words, too.

There are some more books in the League Room—mostly pertaining to Mythology. Marjorie Brown reads these a great deal, too much in fact, for the poor girl is beginning to think that she should be called Diana—the goddess of the Chase.

Those of you who escaped our slams, don't thank us and think it's because you are too noble to be touched. The truth is, our nasty disposition ran out too soon. Those of you who were hit, please don't have any hard feelings, but take a wallop at next year's Juniors for us.

PERSONAL BUNS

KNOCKING 'EM COLD.

E. Thomas remarked that "a long time ago people told me I was good looking, but nobody has said anything lately, so I suppose I've grown so beautiful that they are speechless."

Which of the martyrs do you think "Jim" Caven resembles? I wonder if he is sorry about his missing lock. For further information on this subject see Miss Clark.

Don't you think Ernest Hildner looks like the "Sheik"? Careful, Ernest. Watch your step.

Reproduction of Kindergarten manners and speech carried on in the League Room. Anyone desiring to learn baby talk from a few six-footers apply at the League Room.

"How do you do it?"
"Wilson Buck has a large following, but what's the idea, Buck?"

It's almost the end of the year now, so don't you think it's time for the girls who are engaged to announce it in the N. S. N. News?

FAMOUS SAYINGS.

The man sat on the box car,
His feet hung on the ground.

MacIntosh: "Do I get my credit in Physical Training?"
Mr. Gant—"How many times were you absent?"
Mac.: "I don't know, but I know how many times I was there."

Coyne is his name, and he's a regular wooden nickel.

Steele has a hard name, but his heart melts before the flashes of a woman's eye.

The best course at the Normal is the race course.

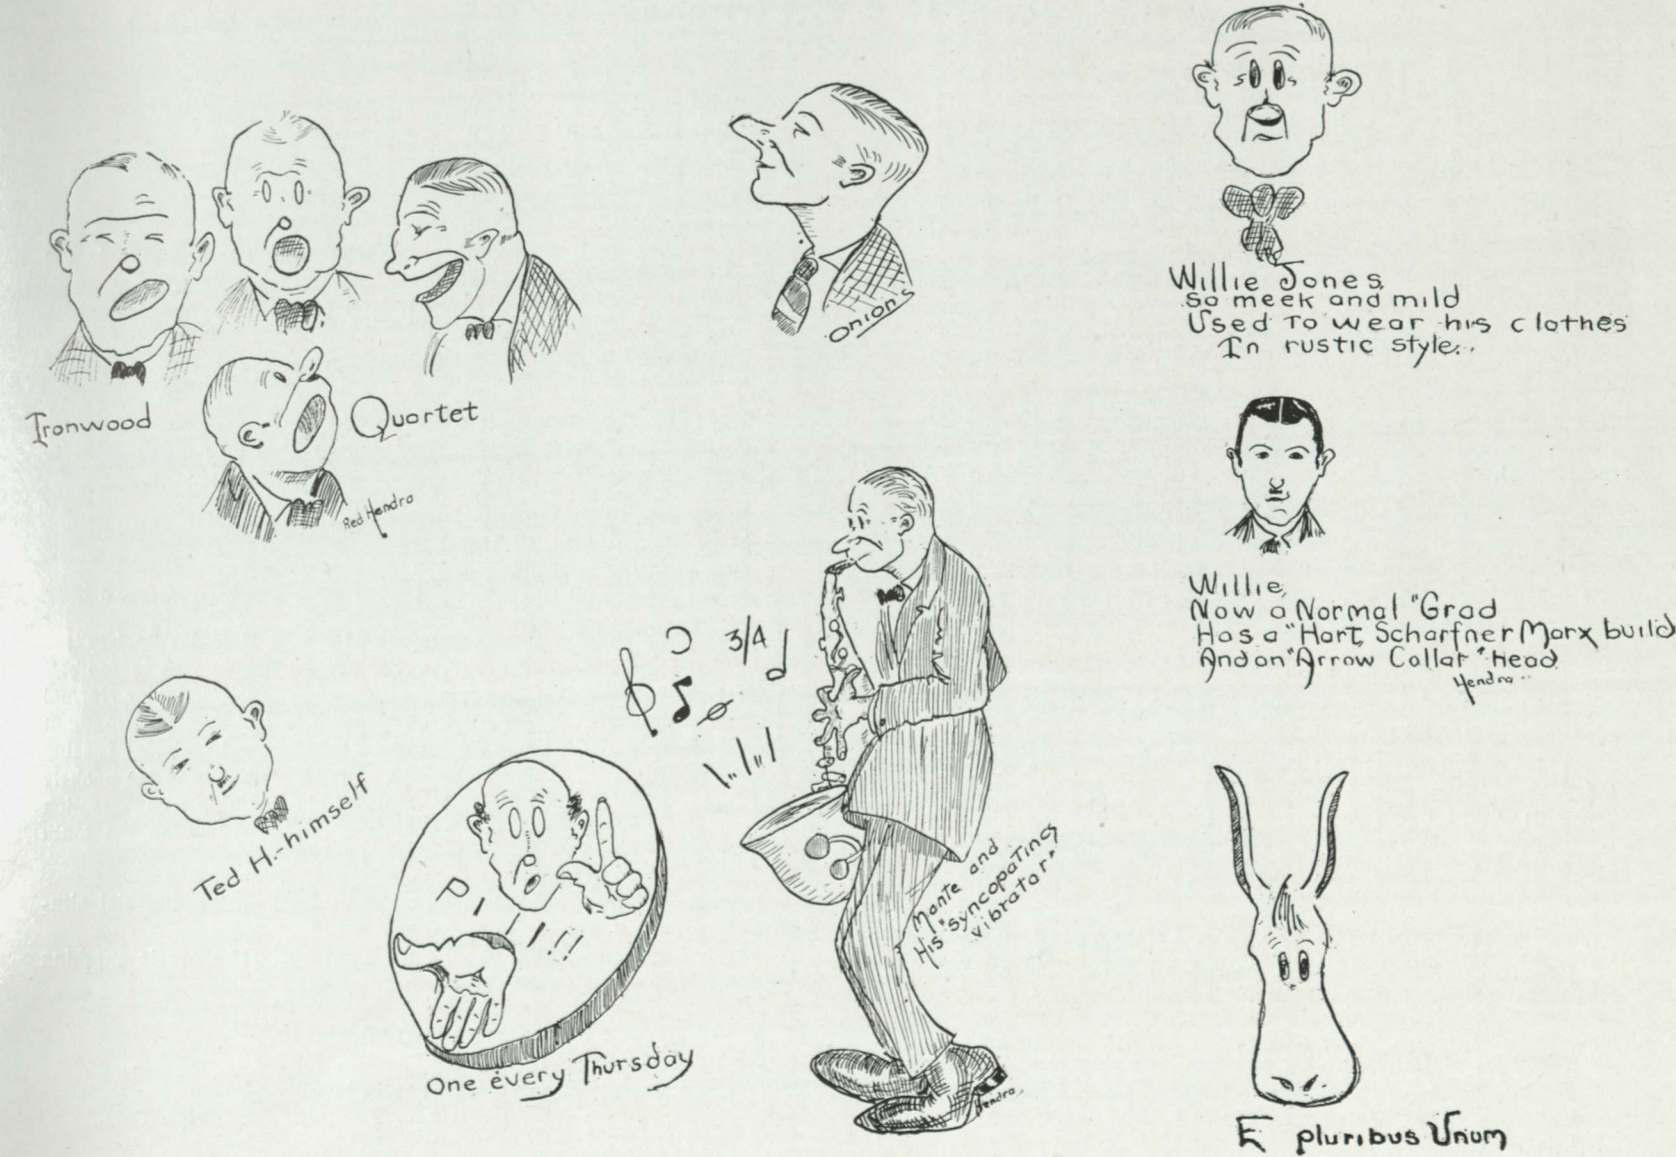

No, girls; Babe Limpert doesn't buy his complexion powder at Pendill's.

Bill Hubbert may be a fat man, but he's no fathead by a long ways—Duke of Monte Carlo.

Sam Corey and Mark Coyne are the dark horses around this school.

If your outward appearance is your "Hello" to the world, what kind of a "How-do-you-do" does W. Bond make?

Our "brides-to-be"—It's a secret, so don't tell anybody: Marvel Oliver, Gladys Thornley, Catherine Stephenson, Marie Vandenboom, Marjory Brown, Gladys Trethewey.

THEY SAY THAT

Pres. Kaye (referring to the Luberto Dance Orchestra at assembly): "If the band will play another tune we will all pass to our classes."

Bill Morrison (after returning from his Crystal Falls trip): "I learned something, Cameron, what was it?"

Wink Johnston's father must be pretty glad that he has nearly worked Wink's way through college.

We feel sorry for Mr. Duke.

Mr. Hild says that you can tell when the youngsters get home from school by looking in your garage any night after ten o'clock. He says that he expects to start walking again as soon as Marcella gets back from the Normal.

Elsie Trevarthen was once asked to hand in a two hundred word theme on automobiles, and this is what she handed in:

"I went out riding with Clarence Christian once and he had a blow-out and the other 165 words are what he said, but I am sure that they would not bear repeating by me."

Better let Murray tell it for you.

Bill Morrison (at Donckers'): "Pack up a Panama package and send it up to Bernice Lester."

Frank Donckers: "That makes the fourth Panama box to that girl today."

Bill: "What! who sent the other three?"

Frank: "I don't know. They didn't leave their names."

Bill: "Well, here, take my card and tell her that it's from the same one that sent the other three."

NO COLLEGE MAN IS AS GOOD AS HE TRIES TO MAKE HIS PROFESSORS THINK HE IS, OR AS BAD AS HE TRIES TO MAKE HIS GIRL THINK HE IS.—Jester.

Time: 9:57 1/2.

(Shuffling of feet, collecting of books, and glances at the door.)

Prof. Chase (wearily): "Just a moment, class, I have a few pearls to cast."

"How's your cold, Grant?"

"Very obstinate."

"How is Marion?"

"The same."

"Do you love me, Willie?"

"Shure."

"Then why don't your chest go up and down like the man in the movies."

"What did your son learn in college?"

"He learned to ask me for money in such a way that it seems like an honor to give it to him."

She (?): "Enthusiasm is contagious."

G. Harrison: "Not always. I've courted girls who didn't seem to share my enthusiasm."

Doc. Lowe: "Mary, did you water the rubber plant?"

Mary Pierce: "No, sir."

Doc. Lowe: "Why didn't you?"

Mary: "Because I thought the rubber plant was water-proof."

We unhesitatingly elect as members of the "I Hate Me Society": Prof. Eldred G. Collick.....For special honors won in football Major William Duke.....For helping to found our dear Normal Crocker Johnstone.....For winning the ladies' tennis tournament Farmer Haskins.....For errorless baseball and insistent fussing Soup LaViolette.....For being able to keep his hands in his pockets during the whole of his ten-minute conversation on the workings of an accordion on the tenth day of January, 1922.

Monte: "I just dropped in to get some light on the financial situation."

Prof. Lautner: "Well, you hit the right one. If there is anything that I am light in it's finance."

"Q" AND "A."

"Dear Third Floor Back:

"When would you say a man was in love?"

"Iva Pain."

When he follows the fair one with a gun all day to keep the trees from barking at her.

"Dear Third Floor Back:

"I am engaged to a nice young man back home and have received the attentions from a very nice young man here at the Normal. The latter wishes to visit me at my home this summer, but I fear there would be a triangular misunderstanding, as my fiance is very jealous. What excuse should I give?"

"Norma Lite Vamp."

Tell him that as soon as you get through pushing that water back up the Dead River you will pick him up in your Ford and take him with you.

"Dear T. F. B.:

"My dog has a mania for chasing automobiles. I want to kill him but haven't got the heart. What shall I do?"

"In Some Onia."

Tell him to chase Prof. Spooner's car up to Third Street and he will die of hunger before he gets there.

"Dear T. F. B.:

"Now that I've got the darned thing, what will I do with it?"

"Noa Lot."

They tell me that life certificates can be exchanged for three green trading stamps and that three hundred green trading stamps can be exchanged for a key that will fit any Ford.

Marion: "I hear that Jimmy's given up cigarettes."

Marie: "He has that."

Marion: "That must have taken a strong will."

Marie: "I have a strong will."

Doc. Lowe: "Mr. Lane, what do you see when you examine a dog's lungs through a microscope?"

Ed.: "The seat of his pants, I suppose."

We have to stop here and award the concrete razor to the fellow who has started to buy his next year's books.

Dave, to Marie: "Hasn't Katie made up her mind to come down yet?"

Marie: "It isn't her mind she is making up."

Famous Solos—Me. You. She.

Famous Trios—B. V. D. He, She, It. P. D. Q.

Con: "I see that the ——'s have named their baby after Julius Caesar."

Leo Schunk: "What did the crazy fools do that for?"

Con.: "Because it was born too late to be named before him."

Mr. Parker: "Run up that curtain, will you, Mr. Johnstone?"

Tubby: "I'm not in very good condition, but I will try it."

Iva Baumgartner ( at the ball game): "We ought to get a run or two now we have a man on all three bases."

Peg Henderson: (at the same game): "That's nothing, so have they."

Collick: "Why didn't you speak to me on the street when you saw me yesterday? I saw you twice."

Marion: "I don't speak to boys in that condition."

Mr. Wiggins: "I won't tell you who this particular faculty member is. I won't even tell you whether it was a man or a woman, but anyway she ——"

WAIT UNTIL—

We have the boys' smoking room. The basketball team takes the Southern Michigan trip. They give letters for baseball. The Glee Club takes a play on the road. Bill Duke graduates. The course in fussiology is extinct.

—are one of the most important units in our social structure. Upon their example and inspiration rests the guidance and enlightenment of young minds. While they appreciate the value of "book learning," they also appreciate the supreme importance of character and character building. They know that in THRIFT and self-control lies the greatest wisdom, and they impart this knowledge to their pupils.

The teachers' contact with life has shown them that those who succeed are those who put their shoulders to the wheel,—those who give meaning to their lives by saving the earnings of their heads and their hands.
