RE: Disposition of Conduct Complaints Regarding Charles Griffis

DATE: December 9, 1969

Regarding the complaints submitted by Ruth O'Brien, complainant:

1. Wednesday, November 12, 1969: alleged violation of Open House procedures; no proof available on charge.
2. Friday, November 14, 1969: alleged violation of regulation 23.01, Presence of members of the opposite sex in residence halls; it probably could be proved that Charles did commit a very minor violation of this regulation; however, to press the issue would really have been stretching the point that Charles did not stay with the Spooner Hall maid at all times when he accompanied her upstairs as he did stand in the hall and talk to Ruth O'Brien, who was in the doorway of room 318. When Ruth, Carolyn, Charles and I discussed the matter on December 3, Ruth indicated that she did not want to continue with the complaint.

Regarding the complaint submitted by Carolyn Russo which involved a threat made to her by Charles, I was advised that the situation was not covered by University regulations or civil law.

Connie should be informed as to how to indicate the disposition in the log book.
