

Group Of NMU Students Stages Protest Rally

These Northern Michigan University students wave flags and signs on West Washington St. Saturday afternoon to call motorists' attention to a protest rally of between 60 and 70 students being conducted at the Washington St. Park. The students earlier had gone to the county courthouse — which is closed on Saturdays — allegedly to stage a protest demonstration against the sentence given an NMU student who was found guilty in a district court trial of a charge of desecration of the American flag. — (Mining Journal photo)
