RESULTS INCONCLUSIVE:

Continuance Of Job Corps Supported In NMU Faculty Voting

Inconclusive results of a faculty referendum on the status of the controversial Women's Job Corps Center at Northern Michigan University indicate support for continuing the program.

Of the 334 secret ballots cast, 180 were held invalid, bringing the actual vote to 154 in favor of retaining the program. There were also 17 "no opinion" ballots, according to the Human Relations Committee, which sponsored the referendum.

If the final tally shows support margins, a new Faculty Senate recommendation will be submitted to the administration. The faculty was given two weeks to respond.
