Threat To Schools

Public schools in Michigan have not yet closed their doors for the 1969-70 term and already a grave concern has been expressed for re-opening of classrooms for 1970-71.

The outlook for the successful opening of Michigan schools in September appears gloomy at this time, according to the Council of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, an organization which represents over 200 school administrators, including 400 superintendents.

"Michigan schools face an insurmountable problem at this time," a council spokesman said. "This is the fact that many districts are running down maintenance of schools while the Legislature is at an impasse in providing a state aid bill which will adequately fund the needs of public schools.

The council warned that the lack of funding will find it practically impossible to complete salary negotiations with employees when the state's share of financing remains unknown.

Business Mirror: Anti-Inflation Plan Getting Second Look

By JOHN CUNNING
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - "The whole 'lame duck' plan may not have gone wrong, as Paul McCracken assures us, but to date the Nixon administration's plan hasn't been tried. It doesn't look like a winner and the farm are urging some substitutions.

McCracken, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, has stubbornly, perhaps courageously, defended his textbook approach to the past year's problems and despite little evidence of success, has declined to substitute.

Now some of his associates in the Nixon administration are quietly getting as anxious as millions of ordinary Americans who watch jobs being lost, prices continuing to rise, mortgages unreachable, housing instability, and worse.

Queen For A Day

On a recent bus tour to K. L. Sawyer Air Force Base for senior citizens, I'm sure most of them enjoyed it very much. But I wonder if the kids who came along with the white clown didn't feel a little bit of a queen for a day.

I want to thank the service club and the hosts both on the bus and at the club for a wonderful happy afternoon.

Editorial On Student Violence

Dear Sir,

I want to make a mistake when you printed the editorial on Saturday, May 16, on the left side, Page 6. It should have been on Page 1 (full page). There is more MEAT in that article than there is in a half-baked white fish casserole.
