Jamrich Attacks Forces Seeking To Destroy Universities

In a dramatic finale to the Northern Michigan University controversy, the Free Press editor, Jamrich, NMU president, in a personal column, attacked the university administration for what he called "a series of lies and distortions" that have been spread about the university. Jamrich accused the administration of "foot-dragging" and "deceitful" tactics in an attempt to "neutralize" the university's budget problems.

Jamrich stated, "I have been watching the university administration for several months, and I have come to the conclusion that they are not interested in solving the budget problems. They are only interested in covering up their mistakes and denying the existence of the problems." Jamrich went on to say that the administration has been "fooling" the students and the community with false statements and "half-truths." He called on the administration to "come clean" and "face the facts."
